

Body Eloquence: The Healing Power of Stories

Innovative solutions to health challenges

Introductory Seminar
August 19 - 22, 2010
South Duxbury, Massachusetts

You are invited to participate in a series of experiential seminars with Nancy Mellon on the transformational power of storytelling. Whether a traditional or alternative healing professional, teacher, storyteller, clergy or parent, in these seminars you will:

-  Learn well-tried dynamic approaches to support diagnosis and healing through storytelling
-  Develop trust in your imaginative vision, intuition, and your capacity to be inspired
-  Explore story structures that correspond with specific energy patterns and organic processes in body and soul
-  Discover storytelling skills that are responsive to a broad range of health challenges
-  Learn methodology for experimenting with the healing power of stories

This introductory seminar begins the exploration of how we listen and how we heal through the creative process of storytelling and its resonances in the human body. At the closing, we will discuss a long-term certificate course in Body Eloquence.

The seminar will be held in the beautiful seaside town of South Duxbury, Massachusetts, beginning at 12 noon, Thursday August 19, and ending at 3 pm on Sunday, August 22, 2010. The fee of $425 includes accommodations and meals.

For information and registration, contact Meg Gilman at meggart@aol.com or 603-433-8578. Space is limited; please register early to guarantee your place!

Nancy Mellon is a psychotherapist who teaches storytelling as a healing art internationally. In 1990 she began exploring how stories impact physiological processes. Her newest book, Body Eloquence, written in collaboration with storyteller Ashley Ramsden (www.ashleyramsden.com), won the US Books 2008 Best Book award in the field of Alternative Medicine. Her previous books, Storytelling with Children, and Storytelling and the Art of Imagination, also contain a treasure trove of inspiration.
